Jack in the Green

traditional

Verse

1. Now win - ter is o - ver, I'm hap - py to say,
 2. Now Jack in the Green is a ver - y strange man;
 3. With gar - lands he'll cov - er the trees that are bare
 4. Now the sun is half up and be - - tok - ens the hour

1. That we'll all meet a - - gain on the first day of May.
 2. Though he dies ev - every au - tumn he is born ev - every Spring
 3. And our gar - dens he'll trim with his jac - ket so rare;
 4. And the chil - dren ar - - rive with their gar - lands of flowers.

1. And we'll all meet a - - gain on the first day of Spring,
 2. And each year on his birth - day we will dance in the street
 3. And the fields he will sow with the hair on his head
 4. So come let the mu - sic and danc - ing be - - gin

10

1. And we'll go a - bout danc - ing with Jack in the Green.
 2. And In re - turn Jack, he will rip - en our wheat.
 3. And our grain it will rip - en 'till Old Jack is dead.
 4. And touch the good heart of young Jack in the Green.

14

Refrain

1. Jack in the Green
 2. Rip - en our wheat
 3. Old Jack is dead,
 1. Jack in the Green Jack in the Green Rip - en our wheat Old Jack is dead. Jack in the Green

19

1. And we'll all dance in Spring-time with Jack in the Green
 2. And In re - return Jack, he will rip - en our wheat.
 3. And our grain it will rip - en 'till Old Jack is dead.
 4. And touch the good heart of young Jack in the Green.

Now winter is over, I'm happy to say, That we'll all meet again on the first day of May. And we'll all meet again on the first day of Spring, And go about dancing with Jack in the Green.

Jack in the Green, Jack in the Green, We'll all dance in Springtime with Jack in the Green.

Now Jack in the Green is a very strange man; Though he dies every Autumn, he's born every Spring. And each year, on his birthday, we will dance in the street And in return Jack, he will ripen our wheat.

Ripen our wheat, ripen our wheat, In return Jack, he will ripen our wheat.

With garlands he'll cover the trees that are bare And our gardens he'll trim with his jacket so rare; And the fields he will sow with the hair of his head And our grain it will ripen till old jack is dead.

Old jack is dead, old Jack is dead, And our grain it will ripen till old jack is dead.

Now the sun is half up and betokens the hour And the children arrive with their garlands of flowers. So come, let the music and dancing begin And touch the good heart of young Jack in the Green.

Jack in the Green, Jack in the Green, And touch the good heart of young Jack in the Green.
